"The Walden Cubs."

The Walden Cubs were out Friday afternoon for a second time under the careful leadership of Prof. Randals, their 1907 coach. Prof. Randals is in hopes of turning out one of the best Preparatory teams in the South this season. The first scrimmage will take place next week. Everything looked gloomy for the "Cubs" at first, but the prospects now look bright for a fast team. They have a few open dates that they would be very glad to fill.

Yesterday Mr. Chas. Alexander arrived and spoiled the hopes of many new men who had anticipated holding down right half for the Cubs of 1907.

Ebon Hudson, the "Cubs" last year's left half, was out for the first time Friday. Hudson looks good to make his place, for he has the speed and weight.

Chas. Williams, "the Cincinnati Kid," made a fine showing at left guard. The Cincinnati boy played left tackle for the "Cubs" last year, but will look after left guard this season.

L. Morrow, the last year quarterback captain, was doing some of his oldtime work Friday.

"Bob" Dill, the last year's center, will look after that end of the game for the "Cubs" this year.

Wymon Brady was out for the second time Friday. He will look after right tackle for the "Cubs" this year, and if he looks after it the same as he did last year, it will certainly be looked after carefully, and don't you forget it.

John Banks of the Blue Grass State will be down in a few days to take his place at right end.

Harry Myall, the last year right guard, is expected to run down any day to take his old stand. Myall spent the summer in Chattanooga. He writes that he is in the pink of condition.

Joe Gans.

A few days before the Memsie fight, Joe Gans announced his retirement from the ring. The old master has never done any of the Patti farewell before and may be trying to begin it, but here are his own reasons for quitting the game:

"I have been fighting for seventeen years and that ought to be long enough to suit anybody. If I had been out for myself and could have got my hands on the big money I have earned for other people I might have been able to retire before. Everybody knows that I was down and out before the Goldfield fight. I took a raw deal on the split of that $30,000 purse, but believe me, that $10,000 short end, win or lose, looked as big as a mountain to me. Then, I bet my entire end of the purse on myself. If I had lost to Nelson that day I guess I would have had to walk out of Goldfield. As it was I came out with quite a nice little stake. Then the theatrical engagements helped me along and I began to lay some of the money aside.

"I bought a corner lot in Baltimore and had a three-story brick building put up on it—a hotel. I named it the Goldfield hotel, because if it had not been for Goldfield there would not have been any hotel.

"I had enough money to pay for the ground and put up a good building, but I could not see enough in sight to finish the place properly. That is why I came west this last time. You remember the papers did some guessing about my western trip. They said Gans was going to force Nelson into a fight. Well, they came close to the truth. I did come west to arrange another match with Nelson and we could have got $40,000 for the finish fight.

"Then along came Mr. Britt and knocked Nelson off the perch. I could see my furniture going, but the match with Britt brought me about $20,000, counting the money I won on myself, and I got $9,000 for fighting Memsie. I had figured on getting together $20,000 cash and quitting the ring for good. I have managed to get $30,000 and now I'm going into the hotel business. This fighting game is a tiresome proposition when you follow it for years like I have. I'm ready to quit, and I hope to make the little hotel of mine a favorite resort in Baltimore. Of course, it will be a colored man's hotel and all that, but I have some good friends who are white men and I expect to have such a nice place that they will not be ashamed to drop in and shake hands with me when they are in town."

"Mushmouth" Johnson, Buried at Chicago, and His Strange Career.

(Chicago Record-Herald.)

The body of "Mushmouth" Johnson, the notorious colored gambler, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning at 7:30 o'clock over the Pennsylvania Railroad and was taken to his late residence at 5839 Wabash avenue.

According to the letters testamentary, Johnson left an estate valued at $54,400. Relatives and friends say, however, that he left an estate valued at nearly $250,000. Johnson himself a few weeks before his death declared to a friend that he was worth only $15,000.

"I have made hundreds of thousands," Johnson told this friend, "yet to-day I am comparatively a poor man. I have spent more than $100,000 for fines and a huge sum for police protection since I have been in the gambling game. I was born in Chicago of poor parents and I went to school with some of the most noted men in Chicago's financial life. I have been connected with gambling for twenty years. There is nothing in the game. I have had to pay $4 for every one I took in at the game."

In the death of Mr. Johnson the race has lost its Canfield, for he was the undisputed king of the "green cloth." Although a gambler, he cared for his family and others around him.

Fisk Has Hard Schedule.

Out at Fisk University at 4 o'clock every afternoon can be seen a big squad of candidates on Bennett Field hustling with the pigskin, each man endeavoring to convince Coach Giles that he is the proper one to fill a certain gap in the football eleven that will be sent out to defend the gold and blue this season. The school was later opening this year than the majority of the colleges that will play Fisk, and Manager White and Coach Giles realize that hard work and a lot of it will be required to get the team in shape to meet their first opponents. Knoxville will open the season here and from then until the great annual game between Walden and Fisk, the team will be kept right at it. The schedule includes games with Knoxville, Kentucky State, Atlanta, and possibly Talladega and Tuskegee.

LITTLE FOLKS ENTERTAINED.

Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Flagg entertained Friday, October 4, from 3 to 6 p. m., in honor of their little niece, Lillie May Tyler, who has been visiting the family four months, and who left for her home in Washington, Ga., Saturday, October 5.

The little people enjoyed themselves immensely and an excellent program was rendered. After ices and refreshments were served, all returned to their homes. Many farewell tokens were received. Those present were Lilly May Tyler, De Shield, M. C. McCullough, Eunice Griggs, Morris Odle, Daisy Lee Martin, Jimmy Mathews, Ada May Overton, Myrtle Johnson, Ethel Darden, Marie Hill, Gertrude McFerrin, Cordella Stockell, Arthur Dowel, Addie Katie Franklin, Willie May Brooks, Iola Cannon, Kizzie Lillian Hill, Sam Brooks, Mattie Cheers, Alice Demunbreun, Bessie May Phillips, Codeia Coin, Eliza Demunbreun, Robert Cannon, Martha Vincent, Gladys Wynn, Lilly Wilkerson, Tinny May Odle, Paralee Bush, Mattie Steward.

HORSE SHOW AND CARNIVAL.

tion will continue these each year. They have been encouraged by horse owners and men interested in horses. Thus they announce already that the second annual Horse Show and Carnival is an assured fact. At the time of going to press the popularity contest was yet undecided.

HORSE SHOW NOTES.

Little Ruth Ellen Bandy demonstrated her ability as one of Nashville's best drivers at the Horse Show Tuesday night.

Mrs. Q. Hamilton had one of the best top rigs seen during the Horse Show. Her phaeton is new, attractive and stylish.

Well-gowned ladies were not the least of the attractive feature of the Show this week. They were there in large numbers from all parts of the city.

The I. O. O. Band knows how to play "Moving Day." This seems to have been the most popular number out of their large selection during the Carnival.

The three livery firms, Boyd & Battle, J. S. Martin & Co., and J. B. Kennedy & Co., liberally patronized the entries in the Horse Show and had some fine steeds on exhibition.

The Horse Show authorities were determined that there would be no imposing upon their rights so far as the entries were concerned. They compelled the owners of all horses where there was a contest on, to produce the bill of sale showing that they were owners of the horses before the prize could be awarded.

Mr. Geo. O. Boyd, of Boyd & Battle's stable, was out with his family Tuesday night in their beautiful surry drawn by their stylish thoroughbred mare, looking for ring honors, but the surry class was not called.

The riding of Miss Bessie Leigh Mr. Edward Kennedy created no little comment. They were a handsome couple mounted, riding side by side.

The red riding habit of Miss Bessie Martin lent a beautiful effect on both nights. She figured in quite a number of first and second prizes.

Miss Suele Hatcher rides well. She had two mounts owned by two different horsemen and she rode both to perfection.

The famous bay team of J. S. Martin & Co., showed up well on Wednesday night, especially when driven by C. N. Langston and Alonzo Napier.

Dr. Bandy has a fine double team. The family seems to be all good drivers, as was demonstrated on both nights of the Carnival.

J. Frank Battle, of Boyd & Battle, surpasses anybody in Nashville in knowing how to make a horse look well, step well and act right when on exhibition.

Dr. H. T. Noel entered his two thoroughbred horses in the saddle contest. Nobody can boast of having better bred horses.

Mr. Sherman Reeves was a good patron of the Horse Show. He entered his horses both nights and received recognition in the prize list.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bowling exhibited their valuable rig and good horse at the show.

Mr. O. C. Presley is an enthusiastic horse owner. He has a good eye and knows a horse when he sees it.

Mr. J. B. Bosley was out with his fast mare Tuesday night, and gave a highly enjoyable speed exhibition.

The patrons generally of the Horse Show were well pleased with the decisions of the judges.
